PLAN DEEPER CHANNEL IN RIVER HERE

I. N. U. Is Seeking Permission to Dredge Below the Dam

The Illinois Northern Utilities Co. announced today that it plans extensive dredging work on Rock River below the dam this spring and is applying for permission to dredge a channel in the river from the dam at Dixon to a point opposite the steam generating plant below the Illinois Central railroad bridge. The channel would provide a depth of four and one-half feet at low water but in normal times would be six feet deep. The task entails the moving of between 50,000 and 60,000 yards of gravel and would cost approximately $35,000.

The primary reason for the proposed channel is to allow the tail water below the dam free exit and improve power conditions, allow the ice to get away faster in the spring, etc., but the improvement would carry with it a number of results that would be beneficial to the public.

Makes Boat Channel.
The dredge would follow the government charts and provide depth for boats and barges and when the inland waterway system is extended up from the Hennepin canal feeder from Sterling the channel would be extremely useful. In fact, the existence of such a channel should hasten the extension of the waterway system to Dixon, because government soundings have shown that there is already ample channel in the river from Sterling to a point near Dixon's west city limit.

The dredging work would also do away largely with flood menace by allowing flood waters to get away rapidly. It is also pointed out that such a channel would provide safeguard against damage to the bridges from ice gorges, undermining of piers, etc. The material taken out by the dredge would be used to advantage in the filling of holes being washed in the river bank by whirlpool eddies and undermined banks, etc.

Annual Meeting Of Fair Assn. Is Held

The annual meeting of the Lee County Fair Association was held Friday afternoon in the office of Secretary Gilbert P. Finch at Amboy. The reports of Secretary Finch indicated that the condition of the association was very good. The directors serving last year were re-elected to continue their terms. The board of directors will meet January 27 at which time the annual election of officers of the association will take place.

An important change in the dates for the holding of the fair at Amboy was discussed by the directors. The success of the Saturday fair last year, which was a new innovation, has led the directors to believe that this will bear repeating, with the possibility of continuing the fair over Sunday. The directors discussed the advisability of opening the fair on Wednesday instead of Tuesday as in years past and running through Saturday and possibly over Sunday. Definite action will be taken at the annual election on January 27.

RAILWAY WANTS TO FILL RIVER FOR TRACK ROOM

Increased Switching Facilities At Cement Co. Needed

The Chicago & Northwestern Railway is making strenuous efforts to secure state and government permission to appropriate a part of the bed of Rock River for use as switch tracks and proposed to fill in a section of the south shore of the river east of the city for this purpose. Considerable opposition has developed, however, and there is some doubt as to the ability of the railroad company to secure the necessary permits.

The NorthWestern has no information on the subject, but the information this paper receives is that the need of increased switch track facilities on the line running to the Medusa Cement Company plant actuated the railroad company in an effort to acquire more room for expansion and finding that prices on adjoining property were more than they wished to pay they decided to make an attempt to use a part of Rock River by filling in a section about 60 feet wide at its widest point and about 1300 feet, or approximately a quarter of a mile long, where they proposed to build three lines of switch track. It is understood that since then the proposal has been modified to some extent, and that now the application asks for permission to fill out fifteen feet into the river to the widest point in the fill. This is supposed to be ample for immediate needs, although more switch track rooms will probably be needed soon.

State Granted Permit.
The railroad company first went to the Illinois State Waterway department and information available today is to the effect that the state granted permission for the fill. It is also necessary to have federal approval on Rock River, which is a navigable stream in the War Department records, and the proposal to fill in a part of the river seems to have struck a snag in the offices of the War Department at Rock Island, where Major Hall is holding up approval, pending further investigation.

The Dixon Park board has gone on record as objecting to the encroachment on the boundary lines of the river and a number of corporations and private individuals have also entered a protest with Major Hall in the War Department offices at Rock Island. As the proposed fill is outside of the city limits the park board has no legal jurisdiction, but opposed the proposal on the principle that any action that might mar the beauty of the river or change its natural boundary lines should be prevented if possible.

BLIZZARDS HIT WEST AND SOUTH-WEST ON SUNDAY

Death And Damage In Wake Of Storms In Western States

Chicago, Jan. 13—(UP)—Blizzards and sleet storms dealt death and damage in central and western sections of the country today.

The toll of death since the general storm began last week mounted to at least 50, and so many were injured in traffic accidents, falls and similar mishaps due to icy streets and sidewalks, that tabulation was virtually impossible.

Telephone and telegraph wires were down in many parts of the mid-west, with southern Illinois and Indiana bearing the brunt of the damage. St. Louis was in touch with the outside world only at intervals. Linemen toiled throughout the night repairing wire breaks but much of their work was undone as temperatures dropped again today after a quick upturn yesterday.

Blizzards in Far West.
Blizzards swept the far west and the southwest. The bodies of Tim Kirkpatrick, 35, and Dave King, 30, stage line employees who perished on Mingus Mountain near Prescott, Ariz., were found a quarter of a mile from their overturned automobile. They had tried to reach a truck stranded in deep snow.

The storm's fury was felt over Nevada, Utah, part of California and Colorado. Snow fell yesterday in the San Joaquin Valley of California, known as the "Garden of the Sun," but soon turned to rain. Mountain resorts in California were isolated by drifts that blocked roads and trails.

A desultory snow fell in the Chicago area, where streets and highways were rivers of slush and treacherous avenues of ice by turns. Rivers ran brimful, carrying threats of floods to states farther south.

MAROONED IN MOUNTAINS.
Los Angeles, Jan. 13—(UP)—Highway crews with all available snow clearing equipment renewed efforts today to rescue scores of persons who went into southern California mountains for a week-end of winter sports and were marooned by the heaviest snowfall in years.

Hundreds of fun seekers in five feet of snow in some sections, but when a blizzard swept across the mountains Sunday, skis and toboggans were abandoned for shovels. Scores were forced into the shelter of cabins and mountain resorts. Most of those marooned were believed to have sufficient food for several days and in the protection of their cabins and were not considered in any danger. It will require three or four days for snowplows to cut through to some of the settlements, highway officials said.

PRISONERS IN CABIN.
Las Vegas, Nev., Jan. 13—(UP)—Heavy snows which blotted out 16 miles of road into Charleston Park today still held Kip Rhineland, scion of a wealthy New York family, and three companions prisoners in a mountain cabin, and defied attempts to take provisions to them.

The four men have been marooned to take provisions to them. Thursday when they went to Rhineland's cabin with a three days' food supply. With the New Yorker are Mike Mahlan, a friend, and two forest rangers, Pat Rooney and Jay Simmons.

Attempts to buck the heavy drifts with horse-drawn conveyances have failed. A tractor was taken to the snow line by truck to start breaking down the barrier.

GALES HIT BRITAIN.
London, Jan. 13—(UP)—Gales which sometimes reached more than 100 miles an hour halted shipping on the English Channel and did wide damage on land last night and today taking a heavy toll of life.

The Admiralty tug Saint Genney sank 32 miles northwest of Ushant with the loss of 20 lives. The severe storm prevented rescue efforts.

Eight persons were killed in southern England and two were lost when the motorship Adroite foundered off the French coast.

The storm, lasting more than 12 hours, caused damage in England, France and Holland. Road, wire and railroad communications were disrupted in Holland. Small steamships were endangered.

The Italian steamer Valentino Nacado stranded on the Isle of Texel. The steamship Ampheta was drifting in the Channel after calling for aid. The Italian vessel Liana was towed to Deal after sending out a distress call. Channel waves reached a great height.

Four persons were killed by falling trees, two died in the collapse of a house; one was blown into the path of an auto and another blown from a pier and drowned to account for the dead in England.

Only one officer and four members of the crew of the Saint Genney were rescued.

Observations Of Commission On Enforcement

Washington, Jan. 13—(AP)—Here are some of the pithy observations of the Law Enforcement Commission in its first preliminary report on prohibition:

It is impossible wholly to set off observance of prohibition act from the large question of the views and habits of the American people with respect to private judgment as to statutes and regulations affecting their conduct.

We must bear in mind the Puritan's objection to administration: the Whig tradition of the "right of revolution."

We must not forget the many historical examples of large-scale public disregard of laws in our past.

The reported arrest in the last fiscal year of upwards of eighty thousand persons from every part of the continental United States indicates a staggering number of what might be called focal points of infection.

To adjust the machinery of federal administration, as it has grown up for other purposes, to this huge problem of enforcement of prohibition, is not easy, and will require much further study.

If on no other grounds than to give the law a fair trial, there are obvious uncontroverted difficulties, abundantly pointed out by experience, which may, and, as we think should be met so as to make enforcement more effective.

Without prejudice to any ultimate conclusions, we think that in the interest of promoting the observance of and respect for law, the national prohibition act may well be strengthened and its effectiveness increased.

It is an anomaly that the cases are investigated and prepared by agencies entirely disconnected with and not answerable to those which are to prosecute them.

Thus, a few simple legislative enactments, in our opinion, could be made greatly to strengthen enforcement of the national prohibition law.

MORE CASES OF PARROT FEVER ARE REPORTED

Bacteriologists In Attempt at Trying to Isolate Cause of Disease

New York, Jan. 13—(AP)—While bacteriologists conducted final tests in their efforts to isolate the bacilli of psittacosis or parrot fever, a third death and several additional cases of illness were attributed to the disease today.

The death of Mrs. William Shields, 51, of Freeport, Pa., was ascribed to parrot fever after an autopsy. She was stricken a week after receiving a parrot for a Christmas gift. The bid later died. Mrs. Shields' 14-year-old daughter is seriously ill with a malady similar to that which caused her mother's death.

Herbert C. Ward, bacteriologist of the Maryland Department of Health, announced that he had isolated a bacilli which he believed caused psittacosis. Further tests will be necessary, he said, before complete identification of the germ is made.

Three more cases of the disease which physicians say is contracted only from parrots were reported in Baltimore. Previously three cases had been diagnosed in Annapolis as parrot fever and four others in Baltimore, the latter all employees of a pet shop. One other person in Baltimore is believed to be a victim, another case was reported from Cambridge, Md., and three from Aberdeen, Md.

Four new cases were listed with the New York State Health Department over the week end, and four were reported to Rhode Island health authorities. North Adams, Mass., had the same number.

The Italian steamer Valentino Nacado stranded on the Isle of Texel. The steamship Ampheta was drifting in the Channel after calling for aid. The Italian vessel Liana was towed to Deal after sending out a distress call. Channel waves reached a great height.

REPORT LAW EXPERTS IS MADE PUBLIC

President Transmitted Recommendations To Congress

Washington, Jan. 13—(AP)—Three days before the tenth anniversary of prohibition, President Hoover today submitted to Congress an array of opinions and recommendations for strengthening enforcement which brought that question into even greater relief than any of the recent controversies that have surrounded it.

In the main these recommendations, prepared by the Law Enforcement Commission, Attorney General Mitchell and Secretary Mellon, were: Reorganization of the federal court structure so as to give relief from congestion.

Concentration of responsibility in detection and prosecution of prohibition violations.

Consolidation of the various agencies engaged in prevention of the smuggling of liquor, narcotics, other merchandise and aliens over the American frontiers.

Provision of adequate court and prosecuting machinery.

Expansion of federal prisons and reorganization of parole and other practices.

Law Must Be Enforced.
In submitting these recommendations the President said that "while some sections of the American people may disagree upon the merits of some of the questions involved, every responsible citizen supports the fundamental principle that the law of the land must be enforced."

The Law Enforcement Commission, in this, its first and preliminary report, reserved judgment as to its ultimate prohibition conclusions.

"If on no other grounds than to give the law a fair trial," it said, "there are obvious and uncontroverted difficulties, pointed out by experience, which may, and, as we think, should be met to make enforcement more effective."

On the subject of observance the commission said "it is wholly impossible to get off observance of the prohibition act from the large question of the views and habits of the American people with respect to private judgment as to statutes and regulations affecting their conduct."

On the enforcement side, the commission, in a report dated November 21, 1929, directed attention to the fact that there were 18,700 miles of American boundary and short line "at every point of which infection is possible."

"There are no satisfactory estimates of the number of roads into the United States from Mexico and Canada," the commission added.

"The number of smuggling roads from Canada is reported as at least 1,000, and on the Mexican border there are entrances into the United States as most points along a boundary of 1,744 miles."

Limit Entry Points.
To meet this situation Secretary Mellon in recommendations approved by the President, proposed that the entry into the United States of all persons should be prohibited except at points of entry designated by the President.

The Treasury Secretary said that a unified border patrol under the Coast Guard, which patrols the coastal lines, should be created to guard the border between the designated points of entry and prevent the entry of all persons and merchandise.

At the places of entry the usual customs, immigration, quarantine and other federal officers would be stationed to see to it that all of the laws were enforced.

Attorney General Mitchell, who has been co-operating with the Law Enforcement Commission, made four proposals for legislation designed to bring about better law enforcement. They were: Immediate consideration of legislation to relieve congestion in the federal courts by enlarging the duties and powers of United States Commissioners; by providing some additional judges; by appropriating funds for enlarging and improving the personnel in the clerks' and marshals' offices and providing additional forces in the offices of the district attorneys; by transferring the prohibition enforcement unit from the Treasury to the Justice Department and by amending the padlock injunction provisions of the national prohibition act.

Dolls Dressed to Imitate Owners

By SUE McNAMARA
Associated Press Feature Service
Writer

Washington, Jan. 13—(AP)—Washington society leaders, eager to preserve lasting memories of their party given during the first winter of President Hoover's regime, are having big dolls dressed in duplicate of their own costumes.

Pieces of the material used in dresses worn to the White House are fashioned into matching gowns for the dolls. When the dress is worn to another party the doll goes along to sit on a sofa or hang over the owner's arm during the dance.
Sometimes the doll's hair is dressed just like the owner's. Often a fair likeness is reproduced in the painted face, too.

"I'd like to take you to lunch but I'm married," he said. "Where are the arresting officers?"

Patrolmen Higley and Hagle were polite but they too were married. Then the Judge ordered all newspaper men to publish that the court had ordered the officers to take the young lady to lunch.

Geisha Girls Not Coming Here

Washington, Jan. 13—(UP)—Japanese Geisha girls will not come to Washington this spring to participate in the annual Cherry Blossom Festival, Charlie Lee Cooke, State Department ceremonial officer, decided today. He did not say whether his decision was based on morality or economy.

The Geisha girls had no one to argue their case after the Federation of Christian Missions in Japan protested their coming, basing their action on charges of moral turpitude. The Washington Chamber of Commerce, which had considered the project, had previously decided that the cost of bringing the girls here was too great, anyway.

YOUR CHILDREN by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"It distresses us because our children are so ungrateful," writes a certain mother. "My husband and I have worked so hard and tried to give them everything in the world to make them happy, often doing without necessities to do so. Our home is on a good street and nicely furnished. We have always made it a point to live in a good neighborhood so they would have nice friends and good surroundings. They have always been dressed as well as the other children."

"Now they are getting older and because we cannot keep giving them luxuries in proportion to their tastes they are getting impatient and unhappy and they make us feel as though we have fallen far short of other parents in supplying their demands. The oldest boy wants to stop high school and go to prep-school where his two chums went last fall. He is very unhappy about it and he makes us unhappy too, when we tell him there is no prospect of either prep-school or college unless he can work his way through."

"Is it too late to try to make the children over? We feel that something is wrong with our method of past kindness, but can't tell just what it is. We can't start to scold or punish. It isn't in our natures or to onag, either. Can you suggest any way by which we may improve matters?"
I quote the letter because it speaks for itself.
As a matter of fact there are literally hundreds of thousands of parents in this same predicament, parents who have striven to give their children "advantages" and who are suddenly brought face to face with the fact that once their children are past twelve or fourteen years of age these "advantages" jump from a few extra hundreds a year up into figures entirely beyond their reach.
Then what?
A Crisis Reached
I believe this is the most critical period in family life. It is the test too, of what we have put into the children. If there is a real foundation of character there, now is the time to bring it out.
Call a family conference. Let everybody sit in—father, mother and all the children.
Let the parents put a little false pride in their pockets and explain the whole bare truth to the children. Explain the struggle, the lack of funds, how you've tried to keep them from worrying and tried to give them the advantages your richer friends gave their children.
Tell them; you are growing older; that you will break unless the burden is lightened; that the short end of your life is ahead and the long end of theirs; that you will help them all you can but that they must cooperate even to the point of changing their ideals. Talk to them.

Then what?
A Crisis Reached
I believe this is the most critical period in family life. It is the test too, of what we have put into the children. If there is a real foundation of character there, now is the time to bring it out.
Call a family conference. Let everybody sit in—father, mother and all the children.
Let the parents put a little false pride in their pockets and explain the whole bare truth to the children. Explain the struggle, the lack of funds, how you've tried to keep them from worrying and tried to give them the advantages your richer friends gave their children.
Tell them; you are growing older; that you will break unless the burden is lightened; that the short end of your life is ahead and the long end of theirs; that you will help them all you can but that they must cooperate even to the point of changing their ideals. Talk to them.

TRIPLE ACTION FAST ends coughs FAST
"His first serious cold—do you wonder we were frightened?"
"Lynn has always been an exceptional healthy boy—I'll knock on wood for that! So last fall when he came home from a football game with a cold and a bad cough, I was the more anxious. I gave him some Smith Brothers' Cough Syrup—I had confidence in their drops ever since I can remember. The Syrup worked wonderfully. It soothed and relieved him in two days. Lynn had lost every vestige of his cough."
Mrs. L. CLARK, Scarsdale, N. Y.

IT'S ALWAYS OUR FAULT.

Nobody can be greatly surprised to learn that a District of Columbia grand jury, closing an investigation of liquor conditions in the national capital, has reported that it is chiefly the general public's fault that Washington is so wet. Indeed, the thing is so self-evident that it hardly seems worth the trouble for a grand jury to put it in a formal report.

The general public is always responsible when any city is wet. That goes without saying.

What the grand jury might have added is that any defect in any city's life—booze, crime, graft, industries, housing or what-not—is, always, the fault of the public at large.

The rewards of virtue and vice are a bit uneven in this world, in many ways, but where the field of civic affairs is concerned they work out very exactly. We get precisely what we deserve in our cities—no more and no less.

If a city is overrun with bootleggers and speakeasies it is due to the ordinary citizen. If there wasn't a big demand, there wouldn't be a big supply.

If a city's government is shot through with graft and corruption, so that its police force is crooked, its public service departments are inefficient and its payrolls are padded from A to Z, that also is due to the ordinary citizen. If he'd bestir himself, use his noodle a little bit during the campaigns and insist on getting a better class of men into office he could change things overnight. If you don't believe it, look at Cincinnati.

If a city has atrocious slums, soul-killing sweat-shops and starvation wage scales, the ordinary citizen again is responsible. If his conscience were not drowsy he could force a change. Things like that are not immutable. Public opinion can remedy them—always.

In private life things don't always work out that way. There are many four-flushers and hand-shakers enjoying the fruits of success, and many hard-working and capable men who are condemned by circumstance to remain near the bottom.

But in the field of public affairs we get exactly what we have coming to us—nothing more and nothing less.

We have deserved all of the blots on our national record—all of them, from Teapot Dome to the Vire-Grundy mess, from Chicago's gangland displays to Carolina's textile mill town difficulties.

The remedy in things like that is in our hands. If we don't bestir ourselves and use it we have no cause to complain.

HARVARD HAD A HAND IN IT.

A. Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard University, warns that college athletics, particularly football, are being made too spectacular, so that the games are becoming spectacles rather than means of pleasant diversion.

Probably he's quite right. Yet President Lowell might remind himself of one or two pertinent facts before he continues.

To begin with, it was Harvard—unless our memory is all off—that led the way in building a large and costly stadium for its football games.

In the second place, it was a Harvard coach—Percy Haughton—who did as much as any other coach to shape college football in the mold to which it now conforms. Haughton, for instance, was a great one to train a man for one special function, send him into the game for just one play and promptly replace him—a thing that would hardly be done if football were simply a pleasant diversion.

Football has its faults as it now stands; but Harvard, as much as any institution, has made football what it is today.

The Illinois student who shot his parents used to read Virgil's Aeneid for amusement. We know several other students who also read it just for fun—in the English version.

Gunmen robbed the guests at a banquet held in honor of a magistrate in New York City. A number of policemen were present, which tends to confirm the adage that a robber will even hold up his friends.

President Hoover doesn't have to tell the firemen that business is good, anyway.

John D. Rockefeller says he never met a golfer whose character was bad. Singular how men, when old age comes on, seem to be ready to forget and forgive everything.

A doctor says green is the most soothing color. Maybe that's why receiving money seldom makes you angry.

A new apartment in New York bars pets, birds, children and music. Wonder if you could get into a place like that with tan shoes.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN PICTURES BY NEA

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

"I think the monkey's had enough," said Copy. "He knows we don't bluff, and after this I hardly think he'll play mean tricks again. We've made him realize that wrong is wrong and right is right. I think a spanking does a monkey some good now and then."

So Scouty let the monkey go and said, "Now after this you'll know enough to let the Tinymites alone. Remember this: When you are kind, we'll treat you right, but when you're bad, it's your own plight. We're strong enough to punish you whenever things go amiss."

The monkey stood round for a spell and then, with quite a squeaky yell it quickly disappeared from sight. The Tinymites were glad. "I want no more of him," said one. "When he's around, it isn't fun. If he took part in all our play, 'twould likely turn out bad."

Another Tiny then spoke out. Said he, "Say, what's this all about? The bear man, too has disappeared. He didn't say good-bye. He took his monkey cage and bear and left us all. That wasn't fair. I rather liked the bear man and it sorta makes me sigh."

Just then the wind came in a gale. A husky voice cried, loudly, "Hail! I am the Wind Man! I've returned to treat you to a trick. You broke me up not long ago and now I'm going to make it snow." The wind then whistled loudly and the snow came down real thick. The Times scampered here and there. The blinding snow gave them a scare. It blew into their faces and the bunch could hardly see. The queer old Wind Man stood nearby. "How's that for snow?" they heard him cry. "I've paid you Times back real well, for crashing into me."

(The Tinymites build a wonderful snow house in the next story.) (Copyright, 1930, NEA Service, Inc.)

AMERICAN FLAG

On Jan. 13, 1777, Congress decided the 13 United States needed an American flag emblematic of their union.

Although a flag of 13 stripes had been displayed previously, it was not until June 14, 1777, that the Continental Congress passed a resolution, "that the flag of the 13 United States be 13 stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be 13 stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

The origin of this design has been the subject of much controversy, though many writers have considered it to have been suggested by the coat of arms of the Washington family, which contains both the stars and stripes.

Paul Jones claims to have been the first to raise the stars and stripes over a naval vessel, and it seems that the first use of the new flags on land was at Fort Stanwix, where a hastily improvised emblem was raised Aug. 3, 1777.

REAL MOTHER LOVE

New York—An instance of mother love that shielded her son from murder was brought out here in the trial of Mrs. Margaret Kugler, who was being tried for the murder of William Studeman, after a confession. At the trial, however, her son, only 10, told the judge that he killed the man in defense of his father. The son and mother were freed.

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

BY EDSON R. WAITE
Shawnee, Oklahoma.
E. LANSING RAY, PRESIDENT AND PUBLISHER OF THE ST. LOUIS GLOBE-DEMOCRAT, SAYS: "Do you ever stop to think that you can go to stores right in your town and, by judicious selection, be assured of getting the same quality as that which a purchaser in New York or St. Louis or San Francisco gets?"

"Modern methods of manufacture and distribution have given you this advantage. Your grandparents bought their soda crackers, their candy, their raisins in bulk from a grocer who scooped the merchandise out of a bin. In those days the buyer could only hope that he would get full measure—or perhaps extra measure. He could only hope that the goods he bought would be pure—as high in quality one week as the last."

"But until business genius found a way to package merchandise, and until business pride and business foresight inspired the marking of packages with dependable brands, the consumer could never be sure of uniformity in the weight or the quality of the things he bought."

"Today the manufacturer who places his trade-mark on a pair of shoes, a bottled beverage, or a can of peas, proclaims with pride, 'This is my product; I shall keep it good.'"

"THEN, IF HE IS WISE, THIS MANUFACTURER WILL ADVERTISE HIS TRADE-MARK TO THE NATION, AND TELL YOU IN YOUR HOME TOWN NEWSPAPER, WHERE YOU CAN SECURE HIS BRAND, AND THE PEOPLE IN THE ENGLAND STATES CAN BUY WITH CONFIDENCE, AND THE PEOPLE IN THE SOUTHERN STATES CAN BUY WITH CONFIDENCE—SURE OF GETTING THE SAME VALUE AS THE PEOPLE IN PENNSYLVANIA, IN IDAHO, IN OREGON, OR EVEN IN THE FAMOUS 49th STATE."

Daily Health Talk

REST YOUR CHILD
BY OTTO H. LEBER, M. D.
New York, New York

(This series of articles is prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial Institute, which is organized to perpetuate the life work of the late Major-General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. Headquarters of the Institute are at 1331 G. Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.)

There are few things so intimately associated with the welfare of your child as is rest. The world seems to be getting more complex for the child as well as for the adult. The average day of the school-child, yes and pre-school too, is often full to overflowing. School hours, homework, music, dancing, and other lessons; parties, movies, entertainments of all kinds keep the young brain in a constant whirl from morning until night. It is only too easy to see why the modern child specialist or family physician finds an increasing number of manifestations of nervous disorders in the little patients that face him in his office or the home. And not always are they "nervous" manifestations in the basic sense of the word. A host of physical disorders in the child of almost any age can be traced directly to no other cause than fatigue, and conversely melt away and vanish with no stronger medicine than rest.

Rest your child! Rest him or her physically as well as mentally. Every pre-school child, and every school child showing any signs of being nervous, or irritable, underweight or showing loss of appetite, should have a rest period during the day. And a rest period means lying down alone on the bed with the window wide open. It means no toys or books to distract, in which case there will in all probability be a period of quiet and restful sleep. It had best be taken at a definite hour each day so that it comes as regularly and naturally as a meal. In his way what is frequently begun under protest, is continued quietly, and many times welcomed and looked forward to as something the children come to sense as part of an agreeable and beneficial daily routine. While such a rest period is impractical for most children in school and must be compensated for by early bed time, for the child who is below par an afternoon rest hour is more important than the afternoon school period, if one of the two must be sacrificed.

Rest your child! Rest him mentally as well. Do not crowd those precious days with a multiplicity of "dates" and hours spent only too often in movie theatres or badly ventilated houses or apartments. Make them days of sunshine and childhood play, outdoors as much as is humanly possible. Your reward will be a happier youngster, a more healthy child in mind and body, and the best possible expectancy for growth and development into normal young manhood and womanhood.

New Material For Building Is Found

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

State College, Pa., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Bricks so enormous that two of them would about make the wall of a small bungalow were forecast today in the announcement of discovery of a new building material at Pennsylvania State College.

The announcement says that with this new material bricks may be made 20 feet long, five feet wide and six to eight inches thick. Their colors are expected to be red or buff. The surface of the small models which have been made in the laboratory resembles that of paving bricks.

The material is a vitreous clay substance produced by Prof. Joseph B. Shaw and Myril C. Shaw of the ceramics department. The objective of the research was to discover a new road paving substance. The announcement, issued by the Department of Public Information of the college, states:

"Roads harder than concrete, cheaper than macadam and easier to build than either of them are promised in the new material."

"The paving material may be manufactured anywhere that deposits of clay or shale are found, no special quality of raw material being required. The material weighs about 100 pounds per cubic foot. No name has yet been chosen for it. Uses in addition to paving are under consideration, such as the processed small home, facings for buildings, sea walls and dams, and floors and pilings."

Theatre patrons are here afforded an opportunity to express their preference for Living Music.

If you believe that the esthetic merit, glamour and emotional appeal of real orchestral and organ music are worth preservation in the theatre program, SIGN THE COUPON.

Hundreds of thousands deplore the substitution of Mechanical Music for Real Music BECAUSE it fails to give them pleasure. . . . BECAUSE it threatens corruption of musical taste. . . . BECAUSE it discourages development of musical talent.

One admission fee used to buy real music and a movie—Now it buys a movie, with talk, and mechanical music, which is cheaper—an economy for the theatre, not for the patron.

It takes more than cleverness to make a good cigarette. Taste is either there, or it isn't; deception plays no part.

We put taste first, in making Chesterfield. Tobaccos are chosen and blended for mildness, for aroma, for tobacco flavor; taste is always what counts.

And Chesterfield's huge popularity seems to prove that the same thing counts with smokers as with us —

IT'S ALWAYS OUR FAULT.

Nobody can be greatly surprised to learn that a District of Columbia grand jury, closing an investigation of liquor conditions in the national capital, has reported that it is chiefly the general public's fault that Washington is so wet.

Indeed, the thing is so self-evident that it hardly seems worth the trouble for a grand jury to put it in a formal report.

The general public is always responsible when any city is wet. That goes without saying.

What the grand jury might have added is that any defect in any city's life—booze, crime, graft, industries, housing or what-not—is, always, the fault of the public at large.

The rewards of virtue and vice are a bit uneven in this world, in many ways, but where the field of civic affairs is concerned they work out very exactly. We get precisely what we deserve in our cities—no more and no less.

If a city is overrun with bootleggers and speakeasies it is due to the ordinary citizen. If there wasn't a big demand, there wouldn't be a big supply.

If a city's government is shot through with graft and corruption, so that its police force is crooked, its public service departments are inefficient and its payrolls are padded from A to Z, that also is due to the ordinary citizen. If he'd bestir himself, use his noodle a little bit during the campaigns and insist on getting a better class of men into office he could change things overnight. If you don't believe it, look at Cincinnati.

If a city has atrocious slums, soul-killing sweat-shops and starvation wage scales, the ordinary citizen again is responsible. If his conscience were not drowsy he could force a change. Things like that are not immutable. Public opinion can remedy them—always.

In private life things don't always work out that way. There are many four-flushers and hand-shakers enjoying the fruits of success, and many hard-working and capable men who are condemned by circumstance to remain near the bottom.

But in the field of public affairs we get exactly what we have coming to us—nothing more and nothing less.

We have deserved all of the blots on our national record—all of them, from Teapot Dome to the Vire-Grundy mess, from Chicago's gangland displays to Carolina's textile mill town difficulties.

The remedy in things like that is in our hands. If we don't bestir ourselves and use it we have no cause to complain.

HARVARD HAD A HAND IN IT.

A. Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard University, warns that college athletics, particularly football, are being made too spectacular, so that the games are becoming spectacles rather than means of pleasant diversion.

Probably he's quite right. Yet President Lowell might remind himself of one or two pertinent facts before he continues.

To begin with, it was Harvard—unless our memory is all off—that led the way in building a large and costly stadium for its football games.

In the second place, it was a Harvard coach—Percy Haughton—who did as much as any other coach to shape college football in the mold to which it now conforms. Haughton, for instance, was a great one to train a man for one special function, send him into the game for just one play and promptly replace him—a thing that would hardly be done if football were simply a pleasant diversion.

Football has its faults as it now stands; but Harvard, as much as any institution, has made football what it is today.

The Illinois student who shot his parents used to read Virgil's Aeneid for amusement. We know several other students who also read it just for fun—in the English version.

Gunmen robbed the guests at a banquet held in honor of a magistrate in New York City. A number of policemen were present, which tends to confirm the adage that a robber will ever hold up his friends.

President Hoover doesn't have to tell the firemen that business is good, anyway.

John D. Rockefeller says he never met a golfer whose character was bad. Singular how men, when old age comes on, seem to be ready to forget and forgive everything.

A doctor says green is the most soothing color. Maybe that's why receiving money seldom makes you angry.

A new apartment in New York bars pets, birds, children and music. Wonder if you could get into a place like that with tan shoes.

"I think the monkey had enough," said Copy. "He knows we don't bluff, and after this I hardly think he'll play mean tricks again. We've made him realize that wrong is wrong and right is right. I think a spanking does a monkey some good now and then."

So Scouty let the monkey go and said, "Now after this you'll know enough to let the Tynymites alone. Remember this: When you are kind, we'll treat you right, but when you're bad, it's your own plight. We're strong enough to punish you whenever things go amiss."

The monkey stood round for a spell and then, with quite a squeaky yell it quickly disappeared from sight. The Tynymites were glad. "I want no more of him," said one. "When he's around, it isn't fun. If he took part in all our play, 'twould likely turn out bad."

Another Tiny then spoke out. Said he, "Say, what's this all about? The bear man, too has disappeared. He didn't say goodbye. He took his monkey cage and bear and left us all. That wasn't fair. I rather liked the bear man and it sorta makes me sigh."

Just then the wind came in a gale. A husky voice cried, loudly, "Hail! I am the Wind Man! I've returned to treat you to a trick. You broke me up not long ago and now I'm going to make it snow." The wind then whistled loudly and the snow came down real thick.

The Tynymites scrambled here and there. The blinding snow gave them a scare. It blew into their faces and the bunch could hardly see. The queer old Wind Man stood nearby. "How's that for snow?" they heard him cry. "I've paid you Tynies back real well, for crashing into me."

(The Tynymites build a wonderful snow house in the next story.)

TODAY IS THE ANNIVERSARY

AMERICAN FLAG

On Jan. 13, 177, Congress decided he 13 United States needed an American flag emblematic of their union.

Although a flag of 13 stripes had been displayed previously, it was not until June 14, 1777, that the Continental Congress passed a resolution, "that the flag of the 13 United States be 13 stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be 13 stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

The origin of this design has been the subject of much controversy, though many writers have considered it to have been suggested by the coat of arms of the Washington family, which contains both the stars and stripes.

Paul Jones claims to have been the first to raise the stars and stripes over a naval vessel, and it seems that the first use of the new flags on land was at Fort Stanwix, where a hastily improvised emblem was raised Aug. 3, 1777.

REAL MOTHER LOVE

New York—An instance of mother love that shielded her son from murder was brought out here in the trial of Mrs. Margaret Kugler, who was being tried for the murder of William Studeman, after a confession. At the trial, however, her son, only 10, told the judge that he killed the man in defense of his father. The son and mother were freed.

His plan was to take his lady friend and a parson aloft and perform the ceremony in his air-plane. But as the registrar could not grant permission for this ceremony, the young man had to petition the Archbishop of Canterbury. He was disappointed.

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

BY EDSON R. WAITE
Shawnee, Oklahoma.
E. LANSING RAY, PRESIDENT AND PUBLISHER OF THE ST. LOUIS GLOBE-DEMOCRAT, SAYS:
"Do you ever stop to think that you can go to stores right in your town and, by judicious selection, be assured of getting the same quality as that which a purchaser in New York or St. Louis or San Francisco gets?"

"Modern methods of manufacture and distribution have given you this advantage. Your grandparents bought their soda crackers, their candy, their raisins in bulk, from a grocer who scooped the merchandise out of a bin. In those days the buyer could only hope that he would get full measure—or perhaps extra measure. He could only hope that the goods he bought would be pure—as high in quality one week as the last."

"But until business genius found a way to package merchandise, and until business pride and business foresight inspired the marking of packages with dependable brands, the consumer could never be sure of uniformity in the weight or the quality of the things he bought."

"Today the manufacturer who places his trade-mark on a pair of shoes, a bottled beverage, or a can of peas, proclaims with pride, 'This is my product; I shall keep it good.'"
"THEN, IF HE IS WISE, THIS MANUFACTURER WILL ADVERTISE HIS TRADE-MARK TO THE NATION, AND TELL YOU IN YOUR HOME TOWN NEWSPAPER, WHERE YOU CAN SECURE HIS BRAND, AND THE PEOPLE IN THE ENGLAND STATES CAN BUY WITH CONFIDENCE, AND THE PEOPLE IN THE SOUTHERN STATES CAN BUY WITH CONFIDENCE—SURE OF GETTING THE SAME VALUE AS THE PEOPLE IN PENNSYLVANIA, IN IDAHO, IN OREGON, OR EVEN IN THE FAMOUS 49th STATE."

REST YOUR CHILD
BY OTTO H. LEBER, M. D.
New York, New York

(This series of articles is prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial Institute, which is organized to perpetuate the life work of the late Major-General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. Headquarters of the Institute are at 1331 G. Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.)

There are few things so intimately associated with the welfare of your child as its rest. The world seems to be getting more complex for the child as well as for the adult. The average day of the school-child, yes and pre-school too, is often full to overflowing. School hours, homework, music, dancing, and other lessons; parties, movies, entertainments of all kinds keep the young brain in a constant whirl from morning until night. It is only too easy to see why the modern child specialist or family physician finds an increasing number of manifestations of nervous disorders in the little patients that face him in his office or the home. And not always are they "nervous" manifestations in the basic sense of the word. A host of physical disorders in the child of almost any age can be traced directly to no other cause than fatigue, and conversely melt away and vanish with no stronger medicine than rest.

Rest your child! Rest him or her physically as well as mentally. Every pre-school child, and every school child showing any signs of being nervous, or irritable, underweight or showing loss of appetite, should have a rest period during the day. And a rest period means lying down alone on the bed with the window wide open. It means no toys or books to distract, in which case there will in all probability be a period of quiet and restful sleep. It had best be taken at a definite hour each day so that it comes as regularly and naturally as a meal. In his way what is frequently begun under protest, is continued quietly, and many times welcomed and looked forward to as something the children come to sense as part of an agreeable and beneficial daily routine. While such a rest period is impractical for most children in school and must be compensated for by early bed time, for the child who is below par an afternoon rest-hour is more important than the afternoon school period, if one of the two must be sacrificed.

Rest your child; Rest him mentally as well. Do not crowd those precious days with a multiplicity of "dates" and hours spent only too often in movie theatres or badly ventilated houses or apartments. Make them days of sunshine and childhood play, outdoors as much as is humanly possible. Your reward will be a happier youngster, a more healthy child in mind and body, and the best possible expectancy for growth and development into normal young manhood and womanhood.

ERRORGRAMS

Let me have that lunch cheque, John; I want to get rid of this two-dollar bill with the portrait of Samuel Jefferson.

No, why not let me spend this new yellow-back bill with a picture of Garfield on it?

Today's Scrambled Word
NIGHTMARE
This never strikes a person funny.

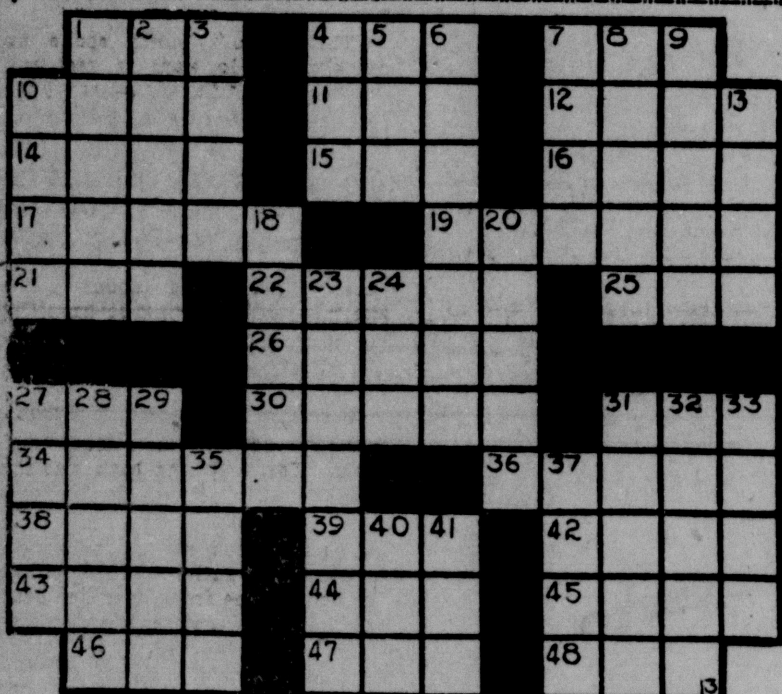

(Copyright, 1930, NEA Service, Inc.)

There are at least four mistakes in the above picture. They may pertain to grammar, history, etiquette, drawing or whatnot. See if you can find them. Then look at the scrambled word below—and unscramble it, by switching the letters around. Grade yourself 20 for each of the mistakes you find, and 20 for the word if you unscramble it. Tomorrow we'll explain the mistakes and tell you the word. Then you can see how near a hundred you bat.

SATURDAY'S CORRECTIONS

(1) The score on the score sheet is wrong. In that it would be impossible of have 234 in the ninth frame and 300 in the tenth, because the most you can get in one frame is 30. (2) A right-handed bowler naturally throws with his left foot forward, instead of his right. (3) The bowler's thumb should be in one of the holes in the ball. (4) Bowling balls have either two or three holes in them, while the third ball from the right has four. (5) The scrambled word is BALLYHOO.

Fonseca Leader In American League

New York, Jan. 13.—(UP)—Lew Fonseca of Cleveland won the American League batting championship for 1929 with an average of .369, but the official averages, released today, reveal Charley Gehringer, Detroit second baseman, as the all-around star of the league.

Gehringer finished eleven in batting with an average of .339; played in the most games, 155; scored the most runs, 131; stole the most bases, 27; led in three base hits, 19; tied his team mate Alexander for the most hits, 215; tied another team mate, Roy Johnson, and Heinie Manush of St. Louis, in doubles with 45 and although occupying an unfavorable position in the batting order, drove in 106 runs.

Fonseca, a National League castoff, compiled the lowest average which has won the title since 1914. He led his nearest rival, Al Simmons of Philadelphia, by four points, while Heinie Manush, 1928 runner-up, was third with .355, one point higher than Jimmy Fox of Philadelphia and Tony Lazzeri of New York, who tied for fourth.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Sacrament" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, January 12.

The Golden Text was, "He that hath my commandments, and keepeth them, he it is that loveth me; and he that loveth me shall be loved of my Father, and I will love him, and will manifest myself to him" (John 14:21).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Be ye not unequally yoked together with unbelievers; for what fellowship hath righteousness with unrighteousness? and what communion hath light with darkness? Wherefore come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing; and I will receive you, and will be a Father unto you, and ye shall be my sons and daughters, saith the Lord Almighty" (II Cor. 6:14, 17, 18).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "He who leaves all for Christ forsakes popularity and gains Christianity" (p. 238).

Mrs. McCormick's Campaign Opened

Shelbyville, Ill., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Ruth Hanna McCormick opened her downstate campaign for the Illinois Republican Senatorial nomination today and outlined her position on what she believed to be some of the issues involved.

The Congresswoman traced the rise of women in politics and, after citing her experience in politics, asked that no one oppose her or vote for her because she is a woman.

One of her opening thrusts was the statement that she was an independent Republican candidate.

"Independent in the sense that I have no alliance with any factional group within my party," Mrs. McCormick continued.

After a resume of the controversy, Mrs. McCormick announced her opposition to America's entry in the World Court or the League of Nations. She championed legislation for completion of the Illinois waterway and announced that in the near future she would outline her views on legislation affecting disabled soldiers, labor and other groups.

Mrs. McCormick injected farm relief into her address with a resume of the bill passed in the last Congress and declared that "as a farmer myself, I realize as only who lives on a farm can realize how important the prosperity of the agricultural industry is to the well-being of the nation as a whole."

I this connection, the Senatorial candidate declared her stand on tariff matters was always one that she believed would benefit agricultural products.

Included in the first day's tour were visits to Shelbyville, Mattoon and Charleston. Tomorrow, Mrs. McCormick swings eastward for stops at Paris, Marshall and Rollason.

Deputy Sheriff Is Held For Killing

Waukegan, Ill., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Douglas Steuber, 45, was shot to death early today after a quarrel with a stranger and a short time later police arrested Deputy Sheriff William Klarkowski for the killing.

Steuber and Walter Ludlow of Highland Park were accosted in a restaurant by a man unknown to them. The stranger began an argument and the waiter ordered them to finish it outside. Ludlow said they had dropped the quarrel and were returning to the restaurant when the man suddenly whipped out his revolver and fired four shots, two of them entering Steuber's chest. He died instantly. Ludlow ran toward the restaurant and two more shots were fired at him. He dropped to the ground uninjured.

On Ludlow's description of the assailant police went to Klarkowski's home, found the lights lit, Klarkowski in bed and his empty revolver on a parlor table. Mrs. Klarkowski told the officers her husband had come home, informed her he had killed a man and had retired. She had already reported to Sheriff Lawrence Doolittle.

Arthur regarded her anxiously. "Sure you feel better?"

"Of course. I'm all right now."

BY WILLIAM WEEKES

Chicago, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Leading the pack with two straight triumphs Northwestern tonight will battle for its position against Purdue, Conqueror of Michigan.

While the Wildcats are entertaining Purdue's awakened five at Evanston, Michigan and Illinois will engage in one of their traditional struggles at Ann Arbor.

Illinois and Northwestern, again will see action this week. The Illini will meet Wisconsin at Madison Saturday night, and Northwestern will go to Bloomington to face Indiana.

Michigan suffered its first setback of the season in any kind of basketball competition, bowing to Purdue in a terrific defensive battle. Both teams set up tight man-to-man defense. And it was not until the final three minutes that the Bolshoi-makers were able to break through for a 23 to 19 victory. Charles "Stretch" Murphy, Purdue's long center, and Johnny Woden, a stubby guard, worked Michigan's undoing.

Northwestern scored its second straight triumph by downing Minnesota 32 to 27. Minnesota put up a great battle during the first period. Indiana got away to a victorious start in defeating Chicago, 36 to 24, at Chicago. Wisconsin broke into the win column handing Ohio State its second straight defeat 32 to 27.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Captain Bud Forster, University of Wisconsin center, today led the individual Western Conference basketball scoring race, with a total of 22 points in two games. Forster had a margin of five points on Captain Rut Walter, Northwestern's center.

Standing of the 10 leaders (conference games only):

Tunney Goes Under Knife In New York

New York, Jan. 13.—(UP)—Gene Tunney will be operated on for a serious kidney ailment at 3 P. M. today.

The retired heavyweight champion, accompanied by his wife, the former Polly Lauder, arrived at Presbyterian Hospital at 11 P. M. yesterday. Mrs. Tunney remained with him throughout the night. She will not leave until she has been advised that her husband is out of danger.

Doctors George W. Fish, J. Bentley Squire, Robert J. Shea and Carnes Weeks agreed to perform the operation on Tunney's right kidneys at 3 P. M.

Dr. Weeks said Tunney's kidneys had been ailing for three weeks. He refused to say whether the condition had been brought about by the severe body punning Tunney received in his two fights with Jack Dempsey.

"The x-ray shows a stone in the pelvis," of the right kidney," he said. "It might cause possible destruction of the kidneys."

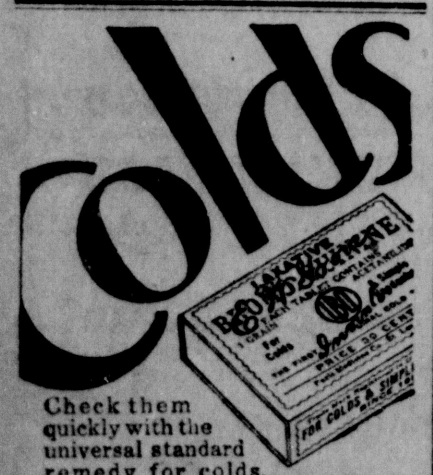

Wilson Anxious To Meet Art Shires

Chicago, Jan. 13.—(UP)—Hack Wilson, Chicago Cubs outfielder, began tuning up his fists today for C. Arthur (The Great) Shires.

Wilson, his press agent at Martinsburg, W. Va., has advised, is gunning for Shires since the White Sox first baseman made the statement last Saturday night that "Hack Wilson is the fellow I'm after."

Now that Shires has been cleared of "buying fights, Wilson hopes to come here within the next ten days to talk over terms and sign for the bout.

If the Cub owners assent, Wilson will fight Shires sometime before the Cubs depart for their spring training next month.

IOWA ATHLETIC STAR CONFESSES PROFESSIONALISM

Pape Admits Playing With the Dubuque Bears in October, 1926

Iowa City, Ia., Jan. 13.—(AP)—After having succeeded on former occasions of fighting off charges of professionalism, Oran H. Pape, star halfback of the University of Iowa football team for the last two years, today was automatically eliminated from further athletic competition at the Hawkeye institution by his own admission that he had played semi-professional football with the Dubuque Bears.

Pape's statement, which was made late Saturday, was published yesterday in a copyrighted story in the Daily Iowa, University student newspaper.

With ten other athletes still in school, Pape has been suspended from athletic competition on charges of having borrowed by an unethical athletic loan fund, the child, Hawkeye officials said, of a former administration.

While his admission of having played with the Dubuque team was made a day after the eastern conference committee investigated the suspension of Pape and the other athletes, Iowa officials said it had no relation to Friday's visit of the investigators, Prof. Thomas E. French of Ohio State, J. F. A. Pyre of Wisconsin and W. J. Moenkhaus of Indiana.

Although participating with the Bears in two games in October, 1926, Pape denied that he received any money for his services, and said that his appearance in the lineup under the assumed name of "King" was without his knowledge and against his wishes. Charges that he played at Galena, Ill., and appearing in a game at Clinton were denied by Pape. The two games in which he admitted he played were against the Dubuque Cardinals and a team from Elizabeth, Ill.

E. H. Lauer, Iowa Director of Athletics, to whom the Hawkeye gridiron star told his story, said he was prompted to question Pape when he heard the latter had admitted to friends that he appeared in the lineup of the semi-pro Dubuque Bears.

Although removed from the list of those who may obtain reinstatement, Hawkeye officials expressed themselves today as still being hopeful that the other athletes will be restored to good standing by the Western Conference.

SHARKEY BEST OF HEAVIES IN JACK'S OPINION

Jack Dempsey Classifies Fighters In Ring Publication

New York, Jan. 13.—(AP)—So far as Jack Dempsey is concerned the heavyweight champion of the world is Jack Sharkey of Boston.

Ranking the boxers in each division for "The Ring," a fistic magazine, the old Manassa Mauler places Sharkey at the top of the heap and terms him the "accredited world heavyweight champion."

Back of the Boston sailor Dempsey ranks Max Schmeling of Germany; Tuffy Griffiths of Sioux City, Ia., and Phil Scott of England. Then he groups seven—Tommy Loughran, Otto Von Porat, George Godfrey, Johnny Risko, Victorio Campolo, Young Stribling and Paulino Uzcudun. The rankings were made before Paulino's victory over Von Porat in the Madison Square Garden Friday night.

Of his own plans, Dempsey says little that is definite. He believes that Sharkey is good enough to repel all attempts to take the heavyweights title out of this country but hints that if the sailor fails, he (Dempsey) may try another comeback.

"I still feel," says Jack, "that even with my long absence from account of myself with any of the ring competition, I could give a good present crop of heavyweights. On the face of things, however, I feel that I am done as an active participant."

Dempsey's rankings slugged those made for the ring for several years by the late Tex Rickard.

Here's the way Dempsey ranks the leaders in the other divisions:

Light heavyweights—Maxey Rosenberg, Jimmy Slattery, Lou Scozzia, Leo Lomski.

Middleweights—Mickey Walker, Dave Shade, Rene Devos, Ace Hudkins.

Welterweights—Jack Fields and Jimmy McLarnin.

Lightweights—Sammy Mandell and Tony Canzoneri.

Featherweights—Kid Chocolate Earl Mastro and Bat Battalino.

Bantamweights—Al Brown and Bushy Graham.

Flyweights—Black Bill and Midget Wolcast.

MRS. PETER MCGINNIS

IRA RUTT, Auctioneer.

ROBT. WARNER, Clerk of the camp is to receive a certificate as vocational forester, recommending him for employment in non-technical forestry work.

"The conservation of America's forest lands depends greatly upon the knowledge the younger generation acquires during the school period," said M. K. Reckord, General Manager of the Izaak Walton League of America, in commenting on the subject of forestry. "The reckless destruction of our forests in the past is a sorry sight for the present generation to face. We have learned our lesson and no doubt the saving of our timber lands will become an important issue in the lives of those who are to follow us."

The Izaak Walton League has fought a hard battle to bring about a greater understanding of the necessity of trees and foliage in curbing floods, supplying game cover and helping to beautify outdoor America generally. The real value of a tree cannot be measured in dollars and cents anymore. Our forests are really our greatest assets in the program of conservation. Without them we could not hope to keep animal and bird life from disappearing, fish life abundant in our lakes and streams and save thousands of acres of land from becoming flooded or drying up.

"I hope to see forestry a part of the teachings of all our public schools within a few years," said M. Reckord in conclusion. "It will help wonderfully to create an appreciation of nature and its welfare in the hearts of America's young people, the conservationists of tomorrow."

Federal Probe Of Sanitary District

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 13.—(UP)—Investigation of whoopee parties staged here in the days when the Chicago Sanitary District was liberal with its funds, say federal authorities with indicated today as a result of a conference here between special investigators and U. S. Attorney Walter M. Provine.

The special investigators spent part of last week here inquiring into the entertainment which the district allegedly gave, supplied certain legislators, the entertainment containing all the ingredients necessary to make whoopee.

Following their inquiries the investigators conferred with Provine relative to the alleged flow of liquor. They suggested that if sufficient evidence is obtained that the matter should be a subject for inquiry by the federal grand jury which convened today.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

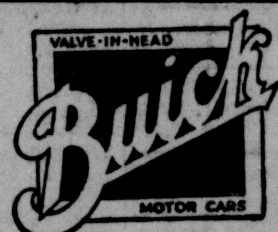

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)
